Dear Edith -

Thank you so much for the publications. I just received them today and I haven't really had time to go over them. This research requires a lot of work. Maybe you wonder why I was so annoyed at Florence. I don't believe that she would ever go to the trouble of doing any work to set up the material for D.A.R. I had written it all up for her. I think she would have had trouble establishing birth, death and marriage of her mother's parents. North Dakota was a pretty new state, and it is possible that they were born in Norway. But what especially annoyed me was, I had loaned her my notes on some Griswold research, including a sketch of the Griswold Coat of Arms. I had found a book on Griswold history in the N.Y. Historical Library. I hardly considered it documentation, but material that I was interested in. She was not concerned that she lost it. It was very difficult for me to get to the Historical Library when I was on S.I. It took about 2 1/2 hrs each way. Bus to the Ferry, 1/2 hr ferry trip, subway to 72nd street then a long walk to the Historical Library on Central Park West. The notes I had taken were on the Griswold family prior to the time they were established in England. As I recall there were 3 or 4 different spellings of the name Griswold. (One I believe was Greenwald. (Germanic - Green wood.) Mother went by and she asked me for the material again. It didn't concern her that my notes were gone. I wrote it all up for her the notes were gone. I wrote it all up for her the
